

Search Surge for Hot Tub Getaways

The 'must have' feature for cottage holidays

A picture-perfect holiday cottage often comes with a thatched roof, an open fire and a country garden – but nestled between the roses is the surprise must-have cottage accessory causing a splash in the holiday market!

According to leading self-catering holiday company cottages.com, one of the most sought-after features in self-catered properties this year is a hot tub, as the brand reports continuous growth month-on-month, in unique searches for properties with spa baths – including a massive 47.7k queries* in February alone!

To coincide with National Hot Tub Day (28th March 2017), the travel company has announced its hot tub collection has grown 10 per cent YoY, reflecting the spike in popularity of properties with the feature.

Simon Norton at cottages.com commented: “A cottage break is often a chance to relax and unwind and having your own hot tub can be a real selling point. We’ve seen the trend increase over the last few years, but it’s now at an all-time high.

“Although most popular with couples, making up more than half of our hot tub bookings, larger group properties with the facility also tend to do well. In fact, properties with a hot tub can achieve up to 42 per cent more bookings than those that don’t have one, so it’s worth considering if you’re entering the holiday letting market.”
